

Office Max Independence Day Sale

Written by Garry Conn on July 3rd, 2008

Office Max is offering some really great deals this year during their Office Max Independence Day Sale. I have always favored shopping at Office Max compared to other office supply stores. Their stores are always very clean, well stocked and employed by very helpful and knowledgeable people.

I visited the OfficeMax.com web site today and can see that they are offering a lot of items during their Office Max Independence Day Sale. Quickly I can see that Office Max has a 50% off sale, Buy 2 get 1 Free sale and even a free wireless keyboard sale with the purchase of two HP toner printer packs.

Looking more closely at their 50% off sale, I can see many items available here. They are offering 50% off on the Simple Tech 500GB USB 2.0 external hard drive. Amazingly, and this is huge, Office Max is offering 50% off on the Kodak V803 8 Megapixel Digital Camera. That is a huge savings. Kodak is one of my favorite brands of digital cameras.

Many of the items in the Lowes 50% off Clearance sale include office chairs. You can score a beautiful and most comfortable office chair by True Seating Concepts for just a little over $100 dollars. That is huge. Normally corporate grade office / computer chairs cost hundreds of dollars. Office Max has an entire separate sale and promotion on computer chairs. High grade chairs start at $89 dollars.

The Buy 2 Get 1 Free sale includes many of their typical office supply items such as tape and tape guns, glue and glue sticks and even shipping supplies and paper. So you may be wondering how I know so much about Office Max?

The key to getting the best deals is having awareness of the sales. One feature I really enjoy about Office Max is their free weekly email newsletter. I know well in advanced when they offer all the sales such as their famous Office Max Independence Day Sale.
